- HaBaWaBa is an acronym that stands for Happy Baby Water Ball, words that represent the joy of a child when playing the game with the ball in the water
- The mission of HaBaWaBa is unique: to spread the love for water polo in the 5 continents, and along with it, the noble values of sport and co-existence.
- HaBaWaBa, therefore, represents not merely a game invented by Waterpolo Development, but also interaction between people, exciting events and a rendezvous stemming from the game, allowing HaBaWaBa to develop constantly with these elements.

Values

- HaBaWaBa wants to teach children the true ethics of sport through a waterpolo tournament in which socialization and respect for opponents are predominant factors. Because of that, Waterpolo Development wrote a Code of Ethics, also called "The Passport of Champions", for the ethic formation of the kids.
- Through HaBaWaBa, the kids will, through a friendly waterpolo competition, discover the social values related to Sport as they get familiar with the meaning of teamwork, loyalty, self-sacrifice, work ethic and mental toughness; all important to build character.
- On the other hand the young athletes get to know the moral values related with the Fair play in competition such as honesty, fairness, responsibility, compassion and respect to the opponents, the teammates and the referees; all important values to be instilled from young.
- The competition represents an encounter between different cultures and ethnicities.
